Market review

The Australian market closed the month of April with the S&P/ASX 300 down -0.8% with seven of eleven sectors finishing higher. Utilities led the index (+9.3%) to continue its strong performance, with Industrials (+3.5%) and Consumer Staples (+3.3%) all performing well. The main detractors of the Index were Technology (-10.4%) and Materials (-4.3%).

Global markets descended further over the month as 'zero-COVID' lockdowns in China added to prolonged geopolitical risk pressures in Ukraine. Developed markets fell by -3.2% by month end as measured by the MSCI World ex Australia NR Index AUD, returns in AUD were assisted by the softer AUD over the month as signified by the MSCI World Ex Australia Index (AUD Hedged) return of -7.4%. Emerging markets fared better than the previous month with the MSCI Emerging Markets NR Index AUD falling by -0.2%.

The domestic and global REIT indexes slowed during April, with the S&P/ASX 200 A-REIT Index (AUD) returning 0.6% for the month and global REIT's, represented by the FTSE EPRA/NAREIT Developed Ex Australia Index (AUD Hedged), retracing by - 4.1%, giving back its March advances. Global REITs especially within the industrial sector, experienced a sharp selloff in late April.

Fixed interest markets have continued their downturn throughout April. Australia saw yields rise, primarily at the short end of the yield curve, as first quarter inflation of 5.1% proved higher than expected. The yield for 2-year Australian Government bonds increased by approximately 30bps over the course of April, while 10- year Australian Government bonds increased by only around 10bps. Credit spreads also continued to widen over the month, which contributed to the Bloomberg AusBond Composite 0+ Yr Index returning -1.5% over the course of April. Internationally rising yields resulted in a return of -2.9% for the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Index (AUD Hedged).

Asset allocation breakdown

Portfolio Commentary

The Portfolio returned -1.70% over the month of April, underperforming the relevant peer group benchmark. The Australian Equities, Global Equities and Fixed Interest allocations all detracted from portfolio performance over the month as market volatility prevailed. The major detractors to portfolio performance during the market sell off in April were the CFS First Choice Wholesale Personal Super PIMCO Wholesale Global Bond Fund; CFS First Choice Wholesale Personal Super CFS Wholesale Concentrated Australian Share Fund and the First Choice Wholesale Personal Super CFS Wholesale Index Global Share Fund.

In contrast the main contributors to performance were the CFS First Choice Wholesale Personal Super Pendal Wholesale Property Investment Fund and the First Choice Wholesale Personal Super Acadian Wholesale Global Managed Volatility Equity Fund.

Outlook

We expect capital markets to remain volatile, with geopolitical events, persistent inflation and now growth concerns causing large shifts in sentiment in both equity and bond markets.

In early May, the RBA lifted Australian cash rates for the first time since 2010, and the board's commentary noted that the pickup of inflation had exceeded its own expectations. That even central banks can be surprised by macroeconomic developments is a stark reminder that investors should not aim to "predict the future", but rather remain well-diversified and prepared for a range of possible conditions. This in turn requires a difficult balance between defence (focused on capital preservation) and offence (focused on growth to keep ahead of inflation).

We have retained an overweight position in real assets and to a lesser extent, Australian equities, which offer some growth potential and better defence in an inflationary environment than longer duration markets such as the US. We remain underweight fixed income. With bond yields now around 3% in the US and 3.5% domestically, bonds are looking more attractive from a valuation perspective. However, with more rate rises expected we are maintaining our patience for now.

We strongly recommend that potential investors read the product disclosure statement or investment statement.
